Patent Prosecution

Pryor Cashman's Patent Group provides clients with expert advice and representation in connection with the preparation and prosecution of patent applications, interference proceedings, and reissues and re-examinations. Our patent attorneys also support the intellectual property transactional work of the firm's Technology and Life Sciences attorneys.

Our Patent Group evaluates and provides opinions regarding validity, enforceability, freedom to operate and infringement matters. We also assist with transactional due diligence, particularly where the strength of a patent portfolio is a key to the success of a contemplated transaction.

Matters successfully handled by our Patent Group range from those involving the reissue of an integrated muscular chest piece and fabric for a child's costume patent to reexaminations of a cassette tape adapter for a CD-like player device, a lamp for dispensing volatile substance and a collapsible folded dipole antenna.

Our Patent Group has prosecuted, reviewed and provided advice concerning patent applications across many fields, including:
