Bryan Mohler joined Pryor Cashman's Litigation Group as an associate in 2007. His practice focuses on general litigation matters, including complex commercial, intellectual property and securities litigation.

Bryan is a 2007 graduate of The George Washington University Law School, where he was Symposium Editor of The George Washington International Law Review and served as a Dean's Fellow instructor for the first-year legal research and writing course.

During law school Bryan also interned for the Honorable James G. Carr, Chief Judge of the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Ohio, and clerked at the Washington, D.C. offices of both the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission and the National Association of Securities Dealers.

Prior to attending law school, Bryan held several positions in the financial services industry, where he provided investment advice and wealth management services to individual investors.
